JACOBS FAMILY

as descended from

1173328

.....

It is unfortunate that our ancestor's name as given above is all that is known of the founder of this family in America ; where he came from and his family are not known with any certainty. Undefined legend gives Wales as the home of the emigrant, and states that there were two brothers, John and Richard, who came to the banks of the Schuylkill ; whether this was the first or second John it seems impossible to determine. Of Richard nothing certain is known, one of that name was married in Wilmington, in 1726, to Barbara Woolrush, and a John Jacobs, among others, signed the certificate ; it has also been stated that a Richard had two children, Anthony, “a weaver to trade,” and Kitty, who married a Cadwallader and had daughters who married, one an Iredell, another an Allibone. The only evidence of the first generation is the wedding certificate, whose present location is unknown, of John Jacobs (2nd) and Mary Hayes, in which he is described as “Son of John Jacobs of Perkiomen.”

The compiler wishes to return his thanks to the many members of the family as well as others, who have given him assistance, without which the work could not have been accomplished, and it is gratifying to state that with one or two exceptions aid was cheerfully given ; in many cases with offers of further help and with good wishes.

It has been sought to make this genealogy as free from errors as possible, but it is not thought to be either full or correct ; therefore any additions or corrections will be kindly and thankfully received. If this publication should awake enough interest, and the compiler receive information about members of past generations to warrant it, there is proposed to be issued a larger work with more extended notices of those whose deeds should not be allowed to lie hidden in forgotten papers, or be lost in memories now passing away.

The scheme used in the following pages is to give to each generation a Roman numeral, to each family an Arabic numeral, and to each person a letter, so that each member is known by a combination of the three characters: e. g. Brinton Jacobs is child "i," of family "2," of generation "V": and further, his children are found by referring to the family given at his right; while his parents' family is found by referring to that generation and family number found after their names at the head of the paragraph, (IV 1.) Dates following names before and after the hyphen, are those of birth and death respectively; that following "m" is the date of marriage. Where a person married more than once, it is shown by "1)" and "2)" being prefixed to the husbands' or wives' names, children of such marriages being shown in the same way. The surname of a family is that next above in large type. Died single is shown by "d. s."; and having no children by "n. c."; child or children by "ch." Twins are shown by a brace containing the names. Numbers have not been assigned to families in the eighth and ninth generations on account of their incompleteness.

The compiler regrets that further information in regard to family V 7 and descendants was withheld from him; he is not at all sure that that given is reliable; vacant numbers in the sixth and seventh generations are left for this branch.

Supplement to the Genealogy of the

JACOBS FAMILY

as descended from

"John Jacobs of Perkiomen."

The publication of the above genealogy has shown many errors and more omissions, many of the former due to incorrect information received. The compiler regrets that greater interest has not been shown by the return of more information such as was asked for in the introduction to the pamphlet; all corrigenda received to this date have been embodied in this supplement, and it is expected that additional information will be published in this form in the future. Thanks are extended to all those who have made the publication of these pages possible.

The compiler is sorry that numbers were not given to families in the eighth and ninth generations, and suggests that such be now inserted, 1 to 71 inclusive for the former, and 1 to 15 inclusive for the latter, hereafter the families in these two generations will be referred to by these numbers and additional families will be designated by the next following numbers. It would be well to add the proper Arabic numerals to the VIII's and IX's in the last columns of the seventh and eighth generations, and to change the parenthetical references in the ninth generation to VIII, followed by the family number used as suggested above.

In order to make the work as concise as possible, changes are here noticed as belonging to a person by her or his generation, family and letter, or to her husband ("husb") or his "wife"; or to a family by its generation and number, e. g. the first addition shows that Israel Jacobs died in 1796, and that his wife died in 1780. Names are not given unless to show errors or additions. Where more than one correction in a family is necessary the family numbers are not repeated.

It is suggested that corrections and additions may be made by writing in the place shown the matter here given, or it may be better to indicate by underlining that the supplement should be consulted for further information at such place. Additional names are given without printing on the reverse so that they may be cut out and pasted on the blanks following each generation in the pamphlet. Additional names for families already given should be pasted near inside edges only of pages so as to be continuous with matter already given, and yet not interfere with succeeding families.
